JAIME ELLERTSON
MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Jaime Ellertson has an established and indisputable reputation as a growth CEO. He has founded three innovative high-growth software companies and sold them to market leaders. He has a proven track record of building great private and public companies with growth strategies that deliver strong investor returns. He is deeply knowledgeable across the enterprise software landscape and has consistently sold into the Fortune 500.

Ellertson has held nine CEO posts in his extremely successful tenure as an entrepreneur and business leader, transforming and growing businesses including Openware Technologies, Tartan (sold to Texas Instruments), Purview, Interleaf (NASDAQ:LEAF), S1 Corporation (NASDAQ: SONE), Gomez (sold to Compuware), and Cloudfloor (sold to Everbridge). He currently is the CEO and Chairman of Everbridge.

About Peoplefluent

PeopleFluent®, the leading total workforce HCM technology company, redefines talent management with an innovative Talent Engagement Cloud that is built around people and not HR processes. By deeply integrating pervasive video, strategic analytics and collaborative social technologies into its Mirror™ Suite of talent management applications, PeopleFluent redefines employee engagement to address productivity loss and diminished financial results due to an increasingly disengaged workforce. With PeopleFluent, companies can change at the speed of business without costly IT interventions through intuitive, highly configurable software that is built upon the right data. Spanning across an organization's entire global workforce with one talent cloud, PeopleFluent equips leaders with the meaningful talent data and strategic analytics necessary to make better business decisions.
